

STAR Survey for Issue 3.1 Least To Most Prompting; Offering Just Enough Help And Waiting Until It Is Needed!

Watch the STAR video at www.ctecaac.org/star and then answer these questions:

Sometimes it is helpful to prompt or help someone use their communication system. However, too much help is not always a good thing. Remember to always try to fade out level of support and the frequency at which the prompts are offered.

Answer the questions below:

* 1. Why is it important to use prompts thoughtfully and carefully?

- You want to encourage independent use of the device
- You may be using more prompts than the person really needs
- The person may start to depend on your prompts
- All of the above

* 2. Give an example of an indirect prompt and a direct prompt. What is the difference?

* 3. Why is it important to wait between prompts?

- To give the person time to find the word or message
- To stretch out the conversation time
- To act like you are not really there to help

* 4. I feel this video was... (Check all that apply)
